CONTENTS

Dear Joanne,
 you're one of the greatest girls
 I ever hope to know or to know stay that way. We had better get along together already because it looks like we will probably be in laws some day! I don't care what an badly says about your hair Parents (which they are not, are off a very little) because it doesn't bother me in the least
 I don't change in any way or you'll never be the same. Just be yourself always.

Lepanto derives its name from the battle at which the Christian army under the leadership of Don Juan of Austria defeated the Moslem forces threatening Christendom. From this battle originated the feast of Our Lady of Victory, the patronal feast of Nolan.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Council

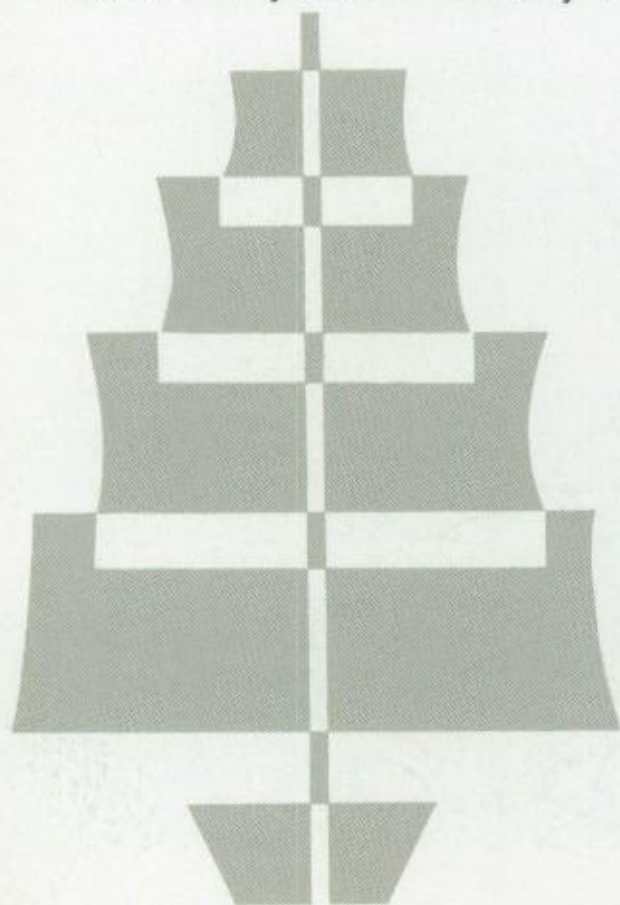

Brother David Paul discusses the plans for Fine Arts Week at a joint Student Council meeting

"Look, Buz, you don't have my job yet!"

The Student Council endeavors to develop attitudes of and practice in Christian citizenship by enabling students to initiate, carry out, and take responsibility for various student activities.

The religious, social, cultural, and athletic activities of the school are coordinated by the Joint Student Council. This year the activities included a film of the Holy Land by Porter Randal, the Prom, a Hootenanny, and many dances; the first annual Fine Arts Week, music and art lectures, and Intramural bowling for boys and girls.

ACTIVITIES

Susie Minshew leads her group in a challenging discussion.

"COMMITMENT TO APOSTOLIC LEADERSHIP IN A CHANGING WORLD"

Theme of Institute

Mr. Douglas Morris addresses the leadership conference on "The Dynamics of Responsible Leadership"

Nolan High School is host to the Diocesan Leadership Institute on August 23, 1964. Keynote addresses are presented by Dr. Charles Galvin and Mr. Douglas Morris. Group discussions are held after each talk. Dr. William Jones speaks on "Attitudes and Techniques in American Leadership" followed by questions from the floor. Mr. John Gavin closes the institute with an address on "Daily Civic Responsibility".

"If you don't mind, Cecelia."

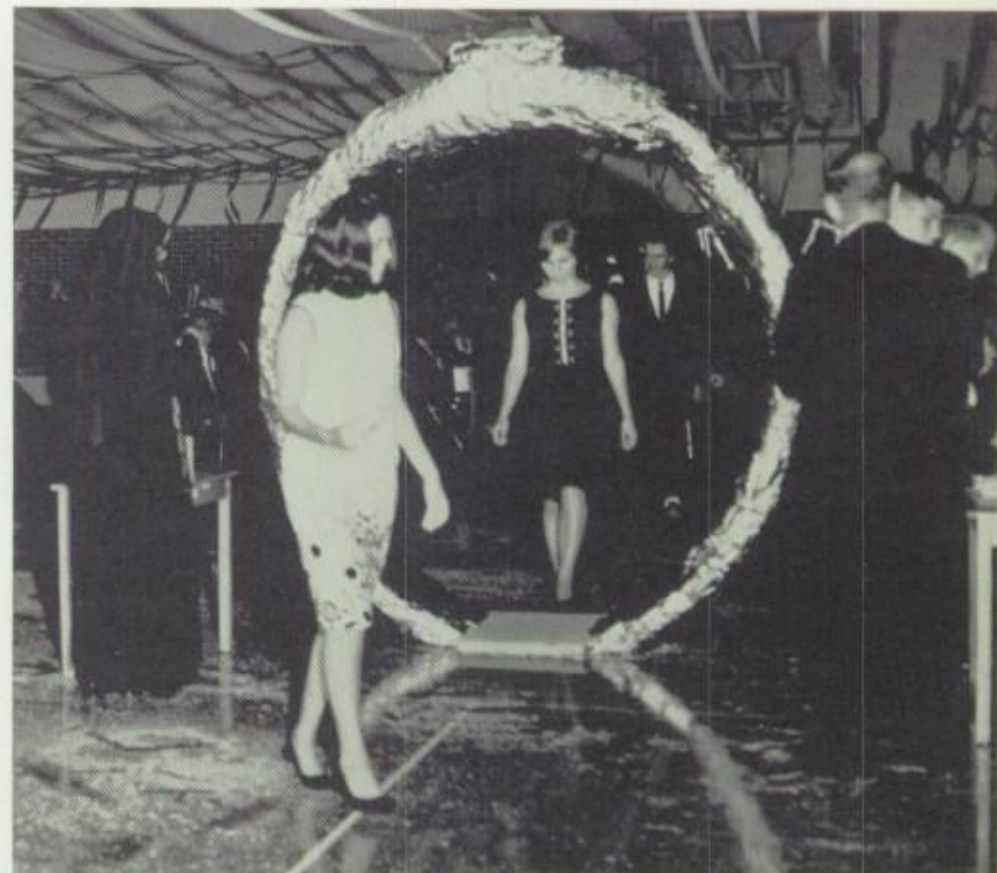

A huge ring sets the decor for the '65 Ring Dance.

Ring Dance Opens Social Season

Senior rings, the symbol of the students' four years of achievement, are distributed by the principals at the annual Ring Dance. Music is provided by the Revelles.

Jeanine Jelinek receives her ring from Sister Eleanor as Kathy Jones and Bill Keating prepare to pass through "the ring."

"What's the guy in the black suit looking at us like that for?"

Father Hazel and Father Neumann distribute Holy Communion at the Mass of the Holy Spirit which marks the beginning of the school year.

Daily Mass Spiritualizes School Day

Students at Nolan High have the privilege of elevating their high school life to the highest level possible by offering it daily at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Spiritual formation as well as academic excellence is of vital importance to the faculty and student body.

Father Neumann and Father Schorp prepare to assist Father Hazel at distributing Holy Communion.

The Schola under the direction of Sr. Jane Marie practice in the catacombs for participation at the Mass on Fridays.

Father Hazel instructs Martin Allen, Pat Larkin, and Terry Howard on the important function of the lector in the new rubrics of the Mass.

These generous girls volunteered their service over the summer.

"Come on, kids! It's great to work for others!"

Eddy Pierce and Gay McDade give their help so these children can enjoy the summer.

Recognition Assembly

Honors Volunteers

In September, Nolan honors those of its members who have spent their summer implementing the Christian ideals of generosity and love of neighbor. Forty girls who served in hospitals and orphanages receive special recognition.

HOMECOMING COURT: Patti Lukeman, '65 Homecoming Queen, escorted by Art Auringer; Phyllis Farrell escorted by Steve Brucker, Nancy Roberts escorted by Desmond Corbett, Mary Jo Andrews escorted by Ray Cox, Alexia Urban escorted by Randy Gunnip.

Homecoming Dance Top

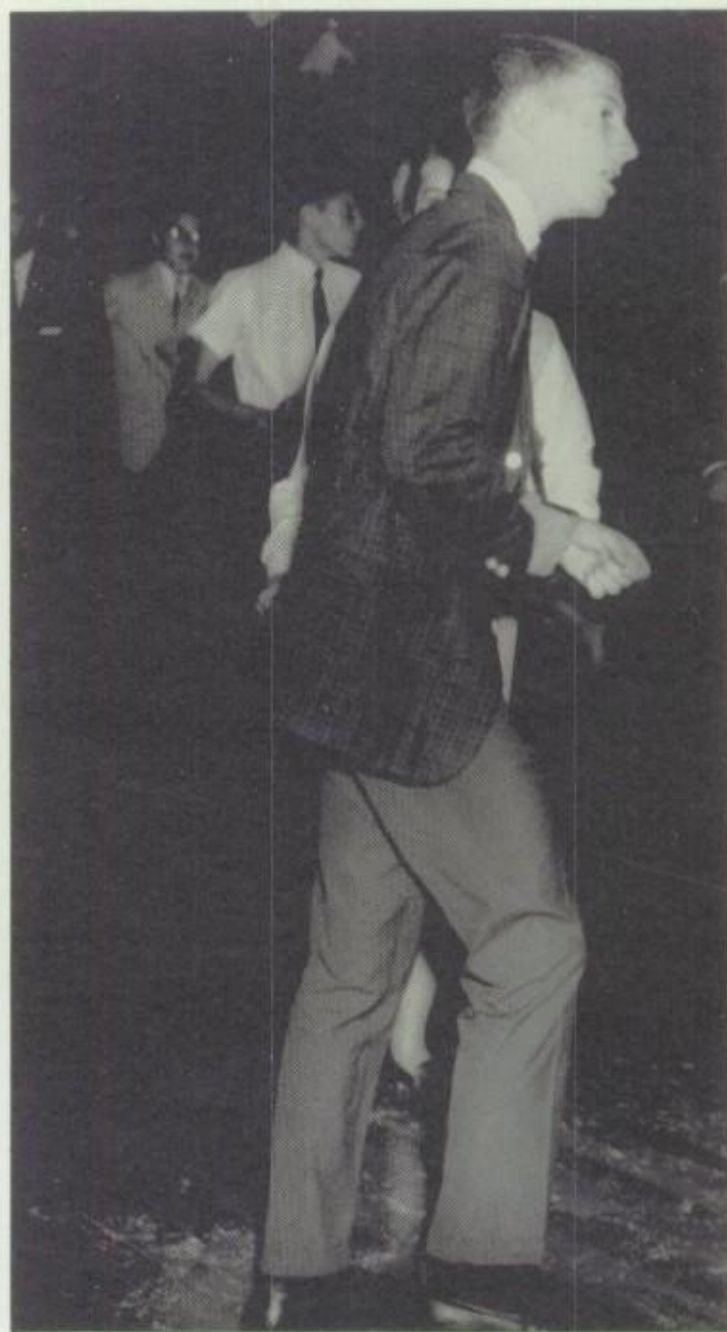

A Halloween atmosphere, complete with spiders, witches, and the graves of Nolan football victims, highlights the 1964 Homecoming Dance. Patti Lukeman reigns over the Homecoming Court as the Senders entertain.

After the dance, everyone goes home.

"Hey, Judy, it doesn't fit!"

"Which way did she go?"

Fall Social Season

The Royal Court takes to the floor.

Revelles take five.

The Booster Club belts one out for a Homecoming Crowd.

Bill Glasser works it out for his moon-struck admirers.

Phyllis dances on as Bill Levy watches in awe.

Homecoming Bonfire Completes Fall Football Fever

McConnell's forty foot structure goes up in a blaze. This year's bonfire is the biggest yet.

Jean Czajkowski and John Chidgey dance the Homecoming tempo.

Football Captains Ray Cox and Art Auringer help Queen Patti Lukeman (behind torch) to ignite the bonfire.

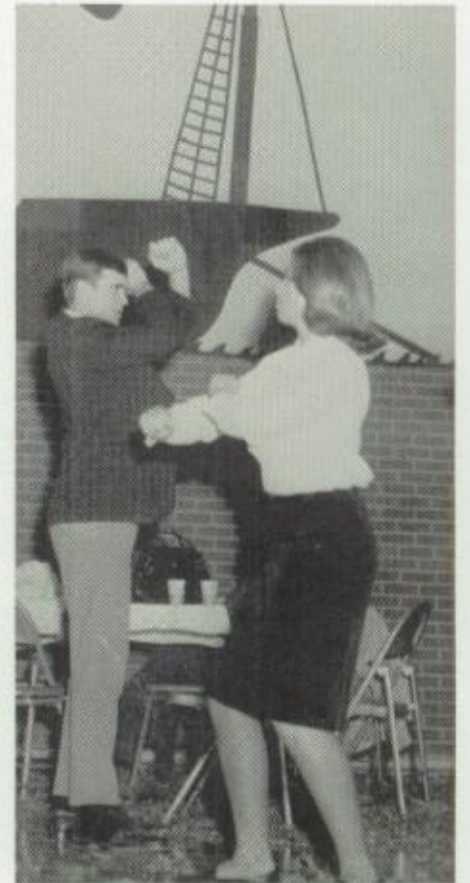

"Did we really run out of gasoline?"

Students Rock at the Plymouth Rock

The Nolan body returns to the spirit of the Pilgrims with its Thanksgiving celebration - The Plymouth Rock.

Exercise makes me feel so young.

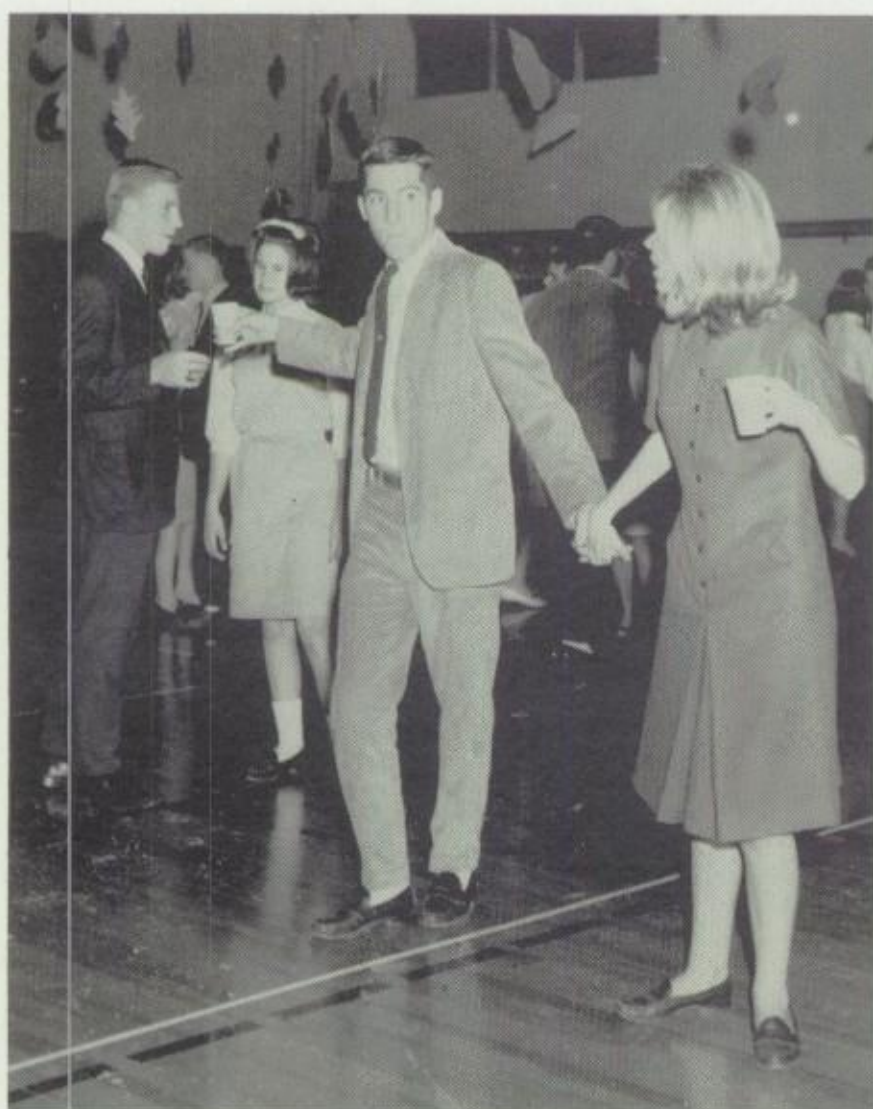

"Hey, this isn't the same boy I came with."

Welcome to another adventure of "Our Gang".

Everyone joins in on the "Texas Twister".

"But, Sheila, you know we can't leave 'til after 10:30."

Jean Senior and her date rest while Sylvia and Tim dance the night away.

The Continentals provide music for everyone's dancing enjoyment.

Ray Hebert, Vic Ashe, Charlie Murphy, Drew Womack, Pat Bell, and Jim Cochran swing it sweet, while sounding off a million dollars of twang.

Nolan Enjoys Hootenanny '64

The sound of banjos, guitars, and fiddles fill the night air as the talent of professionals and Nolan amateurs compose Hootenanny '64.

Unaided by guitar or banjo, Eddye Vivian Pierce delivers an admirable performance.

Enjoying the music, most interested spectators ignore the camera.

Apparently there was something comical on stage . . .

Music and laughter fill the gym.

For more than 50 children it is truly a Merry Christmas thanks to the efforts of the Boys' and Girls' Sodalities. At a party for the Students of the Grant Street Catechetical Center the children enjoy Christmas Mexican Style complete with Santa Claus and pinatas.

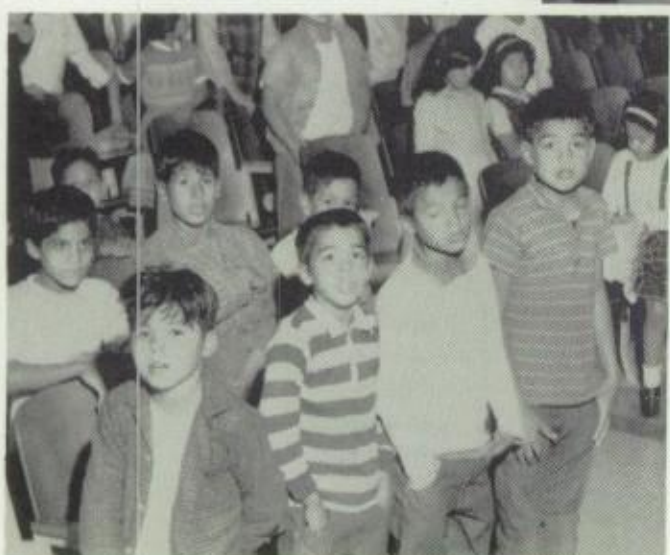

Everyone anxiously awaits the breaking of the pinata.

Santa Claus distributes gifts to the children.

The children eagerly grab for the candy from the pinata.

"I'm tired".

Christmas at Nolan

John Chidgey places the ornament from C-10 on the Christmas tree.

Christmas time at Nolan is a busy one for all the students. Everyone has an opportunity to spread the spirit of love and good-will so conspicuous at this time. The boys' Sodality sponsor a canned food drive which provides nearly a hundred baskets for needy families. Christmas cards are sold for sodality projects. The girls' division collect food, clothes, toys, and gifts to distribute. The Junior girls present a Christmas program to the children at the Denton State School for the Retarded.

Classrooms and corridors reflect the happy mood. It is truly a Merry Christmas at Nolan!

Bobbie Dorris and Rosemary Stanton exhibit Christmas baskets prepared for the needy.

"I have a feeling my "Ho, Ho, Ho's" aren't going to be too good today."

Donna Rappich, Bette Coleman, Ellen Hanlon, Patty O'Kane, Sandra Rodriguez, Cathy Penn, Cecilia Cigainero await the departure for Denton to spread Christmas cheer.

Spreads Cheer

John Creighton discovers causes of Sodalists' worries.

The Nolan Chorus offers program of Christmas Music.

Jerry Bransford and Mike Snyder take inventory of cards sold for missions.

Montserrat, O.L.V., Nolan

Setting for Retreats

The silence of Montserrat gives Nolan seniors a two-day retreat from life, a look into themselves, at their long-range goals and values. The juniors and underclassmen take advantage of Nolan's new approach to retreats to discuss and meditate upon life's problems.

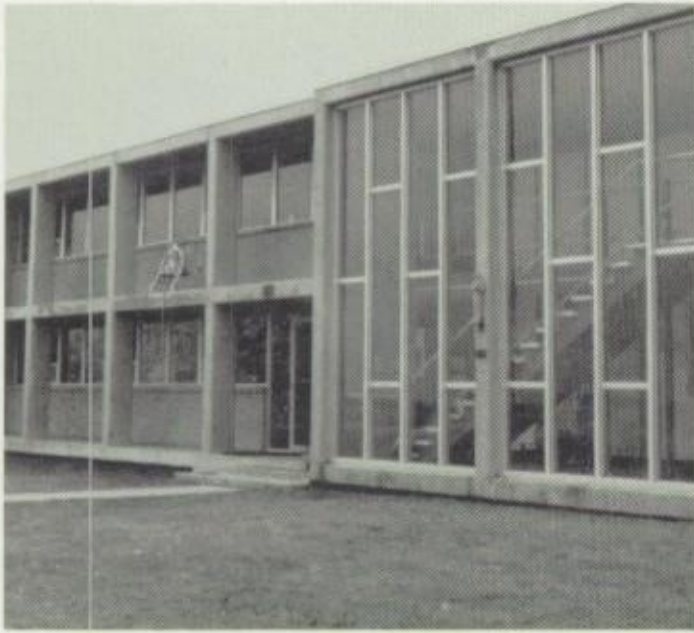

And then Papa Bear said, "Who's been eating my porridge?"

Now, you are only dating the fellow; you aren't going to marry him.

Father Balint closes the Junior retreat with an inspiring talk on

The Senior boys make Montserrat Retreat House the scene for their final high school retreat. They attend group conferences, discussions, and also have time for private meditation.

Group Discussions Feature of Retreats

"Okay, that's $5 on Dapper Dan to place in the fifth and $3 on the long shot Happy Gondolier"

"We're poor little lambs who have gone astray."

"Patti, people are staring; will ya drop that crummy rose and put your shoes on? . . ."

". . . and you should have seen the smoke that dual carburetor caused . . ."

The Spirits of Mardi Gras and of Valentine's Day join to set the decor for the Val-en-Gras Dance. John Wheeton and the Playboys provide the best beat for this year's winter semi-formal.

Desmond Corbett gracefully bows out after latching on to loose balloon.

Byzantine Priest Performs Rite

Rev. John Mary Whitney explains the preliminary preparations to Father Schorp and Fr. Neumann.

On March 31, 1965, the Nolan students participate in one of the oldest, and to them, strangest celebrations of the Church. The same Mass offered in the Roman Rite is celebrated in the Byzantine Rite using the ancient and beautiful Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom. Rev. John Mary Whitney of Austin, Texas, offers the Mass.

Father Whitney raises his hands in the traditional form of prayer.

The family gathers around the dinner table during a quiet moment.

The Nolan Chorus entertains with selections from various countries.

"Chants Du Monde"

A casual atmosphere pervades the "Chants du Monde."

Sister Jane Marie leads her chorus in the unusual setting.

The line-up.

Fine Arts Week

Mary Catherine Scott and Eddy Vivian Pierce help show the connection between music and art.

Jere Surber and Mary Catherine Scott present selections from the world of music.

In the casual atmosphere of a Parisian cafe the Nolan Chorus present their spring program, "Chants Du Monde" featuring songs of the world.

The heart of the Fine Arts, painting and music, finds a major role in the Nolan Fine Arts Festival. Works by students of Nolan, University of Dallas, and T.C.U. are exhibited throughout the festival. Nolan musicians trace the growth and the similarity of music and painting in a program for the student body.

Some parents peer critically at the art prepared by Nolan students.

"Art"?

The Nolan Chorus presents a short program for the entertainment of the awardees and their parents.
